Company Profile

MEC ADDHEAT - Leading manufacturer of wearable heating technology.

ADDING HEAT INSIDE WHEN ITS COLD OUTSIDE

MEC Addheat's core philosophy is to provide comfort through heat. We have achieved this by developing a heating system that can be used in several different applications. The radiant coils embedded into our patent pending heating modules provide people with not only comfort, but relief. Our heating technology can provide warmth on demand to a motorcyclist touring the country in the cooler months to a patient suffering from the pain of arthritis.

We combine years of experience, extensive research & design and a state of the art manufacturing facility to help your dreams become a reality. This comprehensive approach is apparent from conception to mass production. The components of our technology include: heated panels, digital temperature controllers and other components. These systems are uniquely tailored for integration into various textiles such as gloves, garments, lumbar supports, and infrared medical devices... to name a few.

We have succeeded by meeting the needs of our customers. This means we never stop innovating and more importantly. We never stop evolving. Trusted by some of the world's best known apparel brands, MEC ADDHEAT is recognized globally as the proven innovator wearable heating technology.
